

A photograph of a massive sequoia tree trunk, likely a Coast Redwood, standing prominently in a lush green forest. The trunk is dark brown and textured, with a thick base spreading out towards the ground. The surrounding environment is dense with tall evergreen trees and a carpet of green grass underfoot.

SEQUOIA

Segmentation, quantification, and visualization of the diseased aorta